Churchmen join in crusade on TV sex, violence priest and a minister joined today in calling on the Federal Communications Commission to hold nationwide hearings on "gratuitous sex and violence" on television.

"The American public has been bypassed and ignored in the matter of sex-violence exploitation TV programing coming into their homes," said their statement for Morality in Media Inc., a national organization. "The public has been shunned by both the networks and the FCC in attempts to solve a problem that is a matter of national concern.

The statement was issued by Rabbi Julius G. Neumann, the Rev. Morton A. Hill and the Rev. Dr. Winfrey C. Link, all of New York, as they arranged to meet with FCC Chairman Richard E. Wiley.

The three said they agree 'wholeheartedly" with a statement issued earlier this week by the U.S. Catholic Conference, spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church in this country, criticizing the new family viewing period.

The three major TV networks agreed starting this month to show only programs fit for family viewing during the first hour of prime nighttime TV, as well as the hour before. and to provide advisories when there are exceptions.

Wiley prodded the networks into this form of self-regulation and rejected any idea of FCC interference with program content. contending this is beyond the commission's authority.

The three clergymen agreed with the Catholic bishops that "the family viewing plan is one conceived by a few powerful men, behind closed doors, without public dialogue or consultation.

They said public hearings should be held in all areas of the country. not just Washington, as "a necessary first step to an open process." Such hearings would provide a definition of public attitudes," they said. "This should then be presented to the networks with a firm request that they comply.

"The thought of government intervention in program content is odious to everyone. But there must be public consultation in this area. for the public owns the airwaves,' they said. "This has not been forthcoming.

Morality in Media describes itself as a multi-denominational organization "working for media based on love, truth and taste." It is headed by Rabbi Neumann.

Father Hill and Dr. Link, former members of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, held hearings earlier this year on the family viewing period. They brought transcripts of those hearings for their meeting with

Jordan won't buy Hawks

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) - Jordan said today it will not buy Hawk antiaircraft missiles from the United States under "insulting" limitations on their use imposed by President Ford.

"The prime minister has informed the American ambassador that the government would regretfully decline to sign the Hawk missile contract under the conditions and limitations contained in President Ford's message to Congress," said a statement from Prime Minister Zaid Rifai's office.

Rifai's statement specifically rejected Ford's pledge that Jordan would use the missiles batteries only at fixed sites as "defensive and nonmobile antiaircraft weapons" and that Jordan would be banned from placing the weapons under any binational or multinational military

"Jordan regards these limitations as unique and insulting to Jordan's national dignity.

King Hussein has previously announced he will buy an antiaircraft defense system from the Soviet Union if the $270-million Hawk deal falls through.

He has said that Jordan will be prepared to accept Soviet advisers for training his Bedouin army "for a limited period of time." if he buys the Russian SAM missiles.

The inventory list showed that only two grams of the poison were being retained for research purposes.

Evidence already presented to the committee has shown that nearly 11 grams of the poison were transferred from the Army to the CIA at approximately the same time.

Mondale's comments came during questioning of Dr. Edward Schantz, who had participated in the development of shellfish toxin at Ft. Detrick.

Schantz, now at the University of Wisconsin, said one gram of shellfish toxin is capable of killing 5.000 people and that the 11 grams found recently at a CIA laboratory represents roughly one-third of the world's supply of the toxin.

Mondale said Wednesday that testimony was indicating that the Defense Department response to the presidential destruction order was to 'hide the stuff.

"I wouldn't say that inventory is a fraud, but it's close to it," he said.

Barns, equipment also burn

By TONY AULT PB Staff Writer

Fire at a Chino dairy Wednesday destroyed approximately 1,700 tons of hay, three hay barns and other feed equipment valued in excess of $140,000.

According to Chino firefighters. the fire started about 11:44 a.m. when a spark from a welding torch jumped into a bundle of hay in the center hay barn at the Vanderpoel Brothers Dairy Farm.

Within minutes the small fire spread upward into other bundles of hay and licked at the sheet metal roof of the 30 foot hay barn.

Dairymen were unable to stop the blaze that quickly spread to the adjacent haystack. When three Chino pumper trucks and firemen arrived on the scene off of Eucalyptus Avenue near Euclid Avenue, at least two of the large hay stacks were totally involved in flames. The hot fire for nearly an hour, threatened a new milking barn on the north and a tile-roofed home on the south. Cattle nearest the blazing haystacks were moved east to other corrals by the dairymen.

At least one fireman, Mike Sherman, was overcome by the intense heat and had to be transported to Chino General Hospital. He was treated and released.

As red-faced firemen poured thousands of gallons of water on the burning hay, winds from the southwest pushed the flames into the third haystack nearest the home owned by Henry Vanderpoel, co-owner of the dairy with his brother, Pete, Chino school board member.

Billowing brown and white smoke drifted up into the otherwise clear sky above Chino and could be seen as far away as Alta Loma. Smoke still poured from the remainder of the burning hay this morning.

As firmen battled the fire, keeping the flames away from the milking barn and house, Southern California Edison Co. crews called to the scene made ready to restore power to the dairy when the blaze was contained. According to one of the dairymen. some of the cattle were due to be milked about 3 p.m. and the Vanderpoel brothers called for help from other dairymen to assist them in the milking process.

The intense heat from the fire kept several dozen spectators a safe distance from the fire that burned on through the night.

According to Chino fire inspectors, the fire was the second largest of its type in the Chino area in the past two

Another fire off of Hellman Avenue in Riverside County about a month ago consumed nearly 1,500 tons of hay and took fire units Chino. Pedley, Riverside County, and the State Division of Forestry to keep it from spreading to other haystacks.

Firemen said that it was nearly impossible to stop a hay fire once it

Some of black collegians run out of Taft by mob return

TAFT (AP) — Keith Mitchell is back. So is Thomas Jefferson.

Last Memorial Day weekend, along with 11 other blacks, they left town with a white mob, fueled by racial misunderstanding, at their heels.

"I was a little afraid to come back at first, but I feel I am safe in Taft," says Jefferson. 22.

But he adds, "When you walk down the street you can see they hate you and they don't know anything about you.

"Taft is a very nice place, but it has its racism and a handful of trouble makers that do as they please."

Four of the 13 students run out of the town returned to Taft Junior College when it opened for the fall three weeks ago. All are athletes recruited by the school.

Three enrolled in other colleges.

The rest graduated — they were absent from the ceremonies — last June.

Seven other blacks have enrolled. The 11 are the only blacks in town.

Jefferson and Mitchell say they have tried to forget what happened. The college and town seem to be proceeding as if the trouble never took place.

Says Ray Matthai, dean of students: "We are doing business as usual, and we have no problems." The college president, Wendell Reeder, adds, "The general feeling of all those involved is get off it and lot it dia."

The 400-student college has added some security measures. A full-time residence hall supervisor has been employed. Most of the blacks live in the dorm. And the blacks walk in pairs at night.

Dennis McCall, editor of the Daily Midway Driller who was beaten during the disturbances, says the town is "fairly cool" but the undercurrents of anger and prejudice can still be felt Population 18,500, Taft is 40 miles east of Bakersfield, in the hot, dry southern San Joaquin Valley near the Elk Hills Naval Petroleum Reserve which Congress is considering opening to help ease the nation's energy needs.

Many of its residents originally came from the South, and in the 1930s there was an active Ku Klux Klan chapter. Most of the young men are oil workers.

Police Chief Walter McKee says there have been new incidents — and there are no special plans if there is another disturbance.

It all began, says McKee, when "the young bucks got liquored up and persuaded themselves that one of the black kids had knocked up a white girl."

Others say the mob of 30 to 40 whites erupted out of smoldering resentment. Most of the blacks had been lured to Taft by athletic scholarships and starred on the college's winning teams. They dated white women.

Why did the four blacks return? The two available for interviews said they spoke the general feeling:

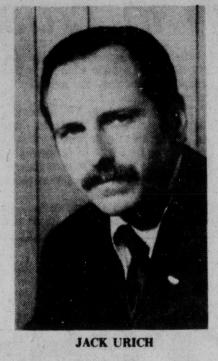

"I wanted to play basketball this season, and on this team I can start whereas on another team I would have to wait out a year," said Jefferson.

Said Mitchell: "I wanted to finish my education. The incident is over, and I want to leave it that way and concentrate on my education and football."

Onassis heir buying state oil refinery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The daughter of the late Aristotle Onassis has entered a partnership to buy a major oil refinery near San Francisco.

Cementing an agreement with UCO Oil Co. of Whittier, Calif., the largest independent oil marketing firm on the West Coast, Christina Onassis Andreadis' representatives announced Wednesday they have purchased the 25,000-barrel-aday Gulf Oil refinery at Hercules.

The partnership also calls for a second refinery to be built, "but I cannot reveal the location or the timetable." said Hugh Lacy, UCO senior vice president.

The principals in the transaction are Jack Urich, 40, president of UCO, and Mrs. Andreadis, 26, said Lacy.

Gulf said it was giving up the plant because of high operating costs.

Lacy said the plant will expand from present concentration on gasoline to the production of fuel oil, as well. He added the new owners plan to move into the facility within a few weeks, pending approval by federal energy officials.

Before his death, Onassis had begun talks with UCO after being thwarted by local protests in an attempt to develop an oceanfront refinery in New Hampshire.

Urich is the son of Frank Urich, whose fortune was made in self-service gas stations.

Neither Urich nor Mrs. Andreadis could be reached for comment.

Mislabeled gun that killed RFK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mislabeling the pistol used in the Robert F. Kennedy assassination didn't invalidate conclusions about the weapon, the city's chief police forensics chemist has testified.

DeWayne Wolfer admitted Wednesday he incorrectly labeled a trial exhibit envelope for the .22-caliber, eight-shot revolver but claimed it happened because of misinformation supplied to him by the county grand jury.

Wolfer emphasized the error had no effect on his conclusion the weapon was the one used by Sirhan B. Sirhan of Pasadena to kill Kennedy June 5, 1968, at the Ambassador Hotel.

UFW wins nine Teamster sites

SALINAS (AP) — The United Farm Workers have won elections at nine Salinas Valley ranches with Teamsters Union contracts following a state farm labor board ruling in favor of the UFW.

The Teamsters won 13 of 28 Salinas Valley elections in previously impounded ballots that were freed for counting Wednesday after the new farm labor board prohibited a single statewide election covering a 156-grower unit.

In results released late Wednesday and early today, three other elections were challenged. Workers at two ranches voted for no union representation, and there will be a runoff between the Teamsters and UFW at another.

The UFW was not on the ballot in seven of the elections won by Teamsters, and the Teamsters were off the ballot in three contests won by the UFW.

Ballots from the 28 Salinas Valley ranches and one ranch in the Fresno area had been impounded after the Teamsters requested a single contract for 156 growers that belong to the Western Growers Association.

RTD votes for L.B. starter line

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) directors have voted to begin engineering plans immediately for a $1 billion-plus starter line from the downtown Coliseum area to Long Beach.

"Let's go," said county Supervisor Baxter Ward in prompting the surprise move Wednesday.

"We have a momentum to capitalize on. The transit district has to have a backbone starter line and a good place to start is Long Beach," said Ward, an RTD board member.

He added that delays could cost the county $2 million per week.

The preliminary plans can be financed by a $552,000 loan from the county, Ward said in urging the goahead. He said the RTD can pay the money back from gasoline taxes allocated by the state Highway Commission.

The catch is that the funds would be transferred at the expense of existing highway construction plans. once regional planners decide what roadbuilding programs to delay.

Can be avoided with price controls—Zarb

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb says oil companies might start raising prices by November if Congress has not reimposed price controls before then.

The companies so far are resisting the urge to increase prices freed of federal controls more than two weeks ago. But Zarb said in an interview that the companies would not hold out indefinitely

"If, by Nov. 1, it has not cleared up, the likelihood of having a prolonged period of uncertainty is pretty good," Zarb said. "I think that 60 days from the time controls went off is ample time to have a resolution of the issue, if we're going to have one.

President Ford has been pressing Congress to reimpose price controls on U.S. domestic crude oil, on a schedule which would gradually remove the controls over 39 months or some similar time.

Ford used his veto to block a simple extension of the price controls without an acceptable phase-out

On Wednesday, however, the House voted strongly for a provision, opposed by Ford, to roll back U.S. oil prices far below current

The House vote clouded prospects for an energy bill that the President would not veto. And without a compromise which could be passed by Congress and signed into law by Ford, oil prices remain uncontrolled.

About one-third of U.S. crude oil production was free of price controls even before Sept. 1. It has been selling recently at about $13 per barrel, roughly 50 cents cheaper than foreign oil which includes a $2 import fee. But the other two-thirds of U.S. oil production - about 41 per cent of the nation's total crude oil supply-was limited by federal controls to a price of about $5.25 per barrel.

Since Sept. 1, when the legal authority for price controls expired, the companies have been free to jump that price right up to the prevailing market price of $13 per

So far, they have not taken advantage of the opportunity because of their uncertainty whether Congress would restore price controls retroactively, the energy chief said.

He said he would not expect "any abrupt, meaningful change that will shock anyone over the next six months" even if the oil price is allowed to rise.

And Zarb said market conditions would restrain price increases at the consumer's level.

"It would be different with different products," he said. "With gasoline. I think we would see no movement at all. On heating oil, it would depend on the severity of the winter and the availability of the product."

Zarb warned that it would also depend on any pricing decisions reached by the foreign oil cartel at a meeting this month.

U.S. could get more for grain

Meany still unwilling to approve deal

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Russian agreement to pay higher shipping rates will mean that American tankers can be pulled out of mothballs to carry U.S. grain to the

It also could mark a major step toward a grain-for-oil swap with the Soviets

Commerce Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton disclosed Wednesday that the Soviets have agreed to pay $16 a ton to U.S. ship owners for grain shipments to Russia.

At the old rate of $9.50, it was unprofitable for U.S. flag ships to carry the wheat, corn and other grains to the Soviet Union because of higher labor and operating costs.

The $16-a-ton rate has not yet been signed by U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Moscow, but Morton said the Russians had "given a handshake" on the new scale. The tentative agreement will mean more jobs for about 1,000 idle U.S. seamen, but a spokesman for AFL-CIO President George Meany said he is still unwilling to declare approval of grain shipments to the Soviet Union.

Meany and maritime unions have called off a boycott of grain shipments for 30 days while American negotiators seek to reduce the impact of sudden grain Russian grain sales on U.S. consumer food prices.

President Ford dispatched a high-level negotiating team to Moscow Sept. 9 with orders to seek agreement from the Russians for guarantees of gradual, minimum grain purchases. Meany had objected that secretly negotiated, large purchases forced rapid rises in the price of bread, meat and other foods.

India raps comments from Ford

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - The Indian government said today that President Ford has no business commenting on India's internal affairs or criticizing Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's takeover of emergency

"It is amazing that the President of the United States has chosen to comment on the internal affairs of a friendly country without due appreciation of the issues involved, the Foreign Ministry spokesman said in a prepared statement approved by the government.

In an interview with the Chicago Sun Times. Ford was quoted as saying that Mrs. Gandhi's recent actions represented "a very sad development and I hope that in time there could be a restoration of the democratic processes as we know them in the United States."

The Indian statement accused Ford of overstepping diplomatic propriety in making the reported remarks and added that India itself had refrained from making similar comments about America.

"There are many aspects of the internal politics of the United States on which it is possible to comment, including the situation of civil liberties and the extraordinary powers exercised by the executive in certain circumstances," the statement said without elaboration.

Not new

Vending machines are not new. As early as 215 B.C., worshipers in temples could get holy water by dropping in five drachmas. In 1615, coinoperated tobacco boxes appeared in English pubs. After a coin was inserted, the lid opened and the patron helped himself to a pipeful of tobacco.

Mandate ends

In 1914 the British mandate over Transjordan ended and the Kingdom of Jordan was proclaimed.

McVittie on cutting court time ... Lloyd on highway aid holdup

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., said his proposed bill that would eliminate multiple court appearances for persons wanting to plead innocent to traffic violations has been sent to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. for

The measure requires a court clerk to schedule arraignment proceedings and a trial for the same day for any motorist who enters a "not guilty" plea unless the motorist requests a separate arraignment. A person could also schedule the trial by a written notice of intention to plead not guilty, accompanied by an amount of bail or any assessment, he added.

"It is often said that our current traffic court system encourages people to plead guilty, even when they believe themselves to be innocent just to avoid the drawn out proceedings.

"Now a person charged with a traffic offense appears in court one day to plead not guilty and then must return at a later date for his trial. Minor traffic fines often total less than the amount of money the person loses by missing a second day of work," said McVittie.

The measure, Assembly Bill 767, is part of a court reform package to clear up the backlog of traffic cases facing California's judicial system.

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-35th Dist., has criticized the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for holding up federal highway funds to California because the state Department of Transportation to begin landthe state hasn't enacted a law requiring motorcycle riders to wear helmets.

"The withholding of all federal funds for highway safety programs for failure to comply with one specific standard is not reasonable or equitable penalty and will be detrimental to the further development of a highway safety program in California," he said.

This also brings to my mind the fundamental question of why should the federal government interfere with whether a motorcyclist wears a helmet or not.

"I think this is strictly a personal matter and as long as it doesn't harm anvone else a person shouldn't have to wear a helmet if he or she so wishes.

Limousins could be more economical?

LULING, Tex. (AP) -Beef producers could buy less grain and housewives would get less fat if American ranchers started driving Limousins, an outgoing Texas cattle breeder says.

Limousins are French cattle expanding in United States livestock markets because of their efficiency at putting on lean weight.

They don't weigh as much as some other cattle. but they'll cut out more beef and they'll do it on less grain, which keeps the price of bread and everything else down for the housewife." Ben Woodson of Del Rio. Tex., said.

Woodson and his partner. Hays Mitchell of Marfa. bought 43 purebred Limousins, including five bulls, from a Canadian breeder recently in the largest such transaction to date in the United States.

They were hosts recently to a gathering of newsmen and beef producers at their

Woodson said tests showed that butchers dress out two to three per cent more from Limousins than other more common steers, such as Herefords and Angus.

Of that dressed out Limousin, there will be six per cent to seven per cent more red meat, he added.

'The housewife will be buying a lot more bites of meat instead of scraps of fat and bones for the dog." the tall, solidly built Woodson said as the visitors scrutinized five golden-red bulls penned

The Texas breeder said numerous tests showed the French steers eat about two pounds less grain for every pound of live weight they produce when compared to other steers in the United States.

Woodson and North American Limousin Foundation vice president Bob Van Trease added that Limousins are rugged, fertile animals which have tew problems calving or giving enough milk.

Van Trease said Limousins require less grain because it takes a seventh as much feed to produce lean meat as it does to produce fat.

"These cattle eat less grain because the re putting on lean instead of fat," he said developing two years ago. Van Trease said United States ranchers might have turned to Limousins years ago except for tradition and difficulty in importing French animals. Law prohibits importation of animals from countries where there is known hoof and mouth disease, he said.

To import the animals, U.S. breeders went to neutral nations such as Canada and bought offspring of animals imported from France into the neutral nation.

More than 3,600 cattlemen across the nation now claim Limousin blood in part of their stock, Van Trease said.

He predicted more ranchers would turn to Limousins as economizing becomes more important to the livestock industry.

Woodson said Limousin steers are $80 to $100 per animal more efficient at producing beef "and you find they're three to six inches longer in the ribeye area and you'll get more good cuts of meat off of Woodson said housewives don't need fat on their meat and that raising animals which produce more fat than Limousins is like "raising the banana peel, not the banana.

HIGH, THERE! David Merrifield performs on a trapeze hung under a helicopter which hovers several hundred feet above the Grandstand at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. The helicopter is piloted by his partner, Jim Grogan. The act is climax of the Polack Bros. Circus which is at the fair through Sunday night. Admission to the circus is free.

Trapeze strung from helicopter

Circus act leaves viewers gasping

By VONNE ROBERTSON PB Staff Writer

The daring young man on the flying trapeze has a new gimmick.

The daring young man is David Merrifield, 38, of Sarasota, Fla., who performs with the Polack Bros. Circus appearing this week at the Los Angeles County Fair.

The gimmick is that his trapeze hangs from a helicopter piloted high above by Jim Grogan of Shelby, N.C. with no net below.

The two have performed together at circuses and fairs for nine years. Although they've covered the globe in these years, this is their first appearance in California.

The spectacular trapeze performance takes just 61/2 minutes, but keeps spectators breathless all the while. As the helicopter speeds across the arena or hovers overhead, Merrifield performs such feats as ankle hangs and twirls on the trapeze which dangles below the craft.

The Grand Champion Duroc gilt raised by Bonnie Brown of Mira Loma brought a high bid of $2.40 a pound, or a total of $508.80 from a packing firm for Farmer John. By the time he was in high school, Merrifield was appearing with circuses in the summer. He maintained his interest and training while attending Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., where he majored in English and minored in education.

"I had been out of college two years when I started developing this act," reported Merrifield.

'My first partner was a friend I talked into taking me up for a helicopter ride.

After some practice, we were booked in Mexico for three months. That wasn't the easiest place to start because of the altitude," added the performer.

He has accepted bookings into 1977 and is planning trips to Australia, where he's performed before, and

'We travel about seven months a year and rehearse every day we are not performing," said Merrifield. He drove directly to Pomona from the Utah State Fair where he shared billing with Jim Nabors.

Merrifield also has performed with Johnny Carson, Red Skelton and other top stars.

According to the trapeze artist, the major source of show money now is in the fair circuit.

Merrifield said he plans to continue his career for many years, adding "Most great performers don't reach their peak until they are in their late 30s or 40s.

Fortunately, Merrifield has never been seriously injured and he is able to get insurance - for a price.

When traveling, he lives in a comfortable trailer pulled behind his car. Otherwise, he resides in Florida where many of his fellow performers with Polack Bros. are his neighbors. He will be at the fair through Sun-

It's all over! police, city end dispute

Pomona City Council averted a threatened strike by police Wednesday night when the salary agreement between the city and police was approved unanimously during an emergency session of the council.

The possibility of a strike had arisen when the council Monday night refused to accept the agreement, the second straight week it had taken such action. Council members had refused to accept the agreement until certain language relating to the term "existing benefits" could be changed in a section of the pact. New wording of the section was agreed upon by negotiators for the while police felt it could also mean conditions of employment, including the number of officers on the force.

The language of the section was changed, said Gonce, to read "fringe benefits" instead of just "benefits" - which gives the meaning sought by the council.

An additional paragraph was then added that states that any proposed changes in working conditions, such as reduction of manpower or increased workloads, would not be implemented until police representatives had the opportunity to meet with city officials and discuss the

Paperwork deterrent

The power to tax may also be the power to destroy, as Chief Justice John Marshall observed long ago, but it is the government's power to regulate their every activity and to inquire into the minutest aspects of their lives that can drive Americans to distraction.

In a recent statement to the Senate Public Works Committee, for example, one major automaker complained that testing requirements for complying with federal auto pollution standards are becoming a "bureaucratic nightmare."

If all the paperwork generated for emissions certification of its 1975 models were placed in a single pile, it would reach about 200 feet high, the company said. It also cost $24 million, required 284 test cars, nearly a million and a quarter man-hours and 5.2 million miles of test driving. Certification requirements for 1976 are even more complex and costly.

In a totally unrelated field, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is erecting another mountain of paperwork. A new directive from HEW to the chief school administrators of the 50 states requires that school districts containing children who speak little or no English "must, at a minimum, determine the language spoken in the student's home, regardless ... of the language spoken by the student, the language most often spoken by the student in the home and the language spoken by the student in the social setting (by observation).

Just in case they have any time left over after all that, HEW has also told the nation's 16,000 public school systems that they must begin keeping "detailed discipline records to help the government determine if minority students are being punished more often than white students.

Like the fight against automobile pollution, it's all in a good cause, of course, as part of a study being conducted by HEW to determine if school districts with national minority children are violating the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits federal funds for discriminatory programs or activities.

But it would seem that if non-English-speaking children are having problems in school - and undoubtedly many of them are - it would make more sense to encourage special English language courses for them than to require harried administrators to observe the language spoken by a student in the "social setting" and to investigate and report on the language spoken in a student's home - "regardless of the language spoken by the student."

Fortunately, the order does not apply, at least for this school year, to schools faced with an influx of refugee Vietnamese children, nor is it retroactive to those millions of people who came off the boats seems, are fully known to the in the 19th century and early decades of the 20th century speaking no English. Left to sink or swim linguistically, these new Americans did quite well - so well, indeed, that many of their descendants now occupy important offices in Washington, from which they issue important directives.

Different types of film violence

A psychologist makes a useful distinction between the types of violence that seem to be so necessary to induce people to go to the movies nowadays.

On the one hand is the gratuitous, antisocial violence in films like "Rollerball" and "Magnum Force" in which people are encouraged to get their kicks watching other people being maimed, beaten, tortured and otherwise

But the violence in such films as "Earthquake," "The Towering Inferno" and "Jaws," although quite explicit, is natural violence, says Dr. Victor B. Kline of the University of Utah.

The total impact of this kind of violence is positive, he says, because it shows ordinary people coming together to overcome some terrible obstacle or danger. It also satisfied "a natural yearning in everyone to experience great emotional adventure without taking any risks."

Thoughts

Do not be conformed to this world but be tranformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect. - Romans 12:2.

And the people stood by, watching; but the rulers scoffed at him, saying, "He saved others; let him save himself, if he is the Christ of God, his Chosen One!" - Luke 23:35.

"No saint, no hero, no discoverer, no prophet, no leader ever did his work cheaply and easily, comfortably and painlessly, and no people was ever great which did not pass through the valley of the shadow of death on its way to greatness." - Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

Dear Editor:

Pomona public library's bookmobile has given the members of Mt. San Antonio Gardens the opportunity of getting many books which would have otherwise been difficult for them to obtain. As we count 21 librarians among our number, who are interested in helping not so knowledgable members get books, these librarians take out books to be distributed among members who do not go to the bookmobile.

I, myself, have a card, but have relied many times on friends to get books for me. And a particularly interesting book is passed from hand to hand and is enjoyed by many more persons than just the card holder.

I'm sure that this is true of the other retirement homes. It would deprive many elderly people of an important source of interest and pleasure if the bookmobile service were discontinued. The members here are greatly disturbed at the thought that the bookmobile might discontinue this valuable service.

IA and Brezhnev's gums

This office has nothing to do, we hasten to add, with the controversial drug that the CIA has fed to unsuspecting victims. In this case, the initials stand for "Life Sciences Division." Its specialists collect and analyze intelligence on the health of world leaders. For all their intimate knowledge about the state of Brezhnev's gums, however, they have not been able to pin down the truth about his health. His file is fat with rumors about his ailments, but the facts have been

The Kremlin kingpin shows symptoms, apparently, of having been treated with cortisone. This is a hormone used to combat any number of ailments, including leukemia, arthritis, rheumatic fever, gout and itching.

He could be afflicted, therefore, with anything from terminal cancer to the seven-year itch. In the flesh, he appears quite fit. But some intelligence analysts, going out on a limb, have predicted his health soon will force him to retire.

Only three solid facts have been established: (1) he suffers from stomach; and (3) he is plagued with horrendous dental problems

Brezhnev's fondness for vodka has been known to the CIA for years. Indeed, the CIA has established indisputably that he sometimes shows up in the Kremlin the worse for the past night's partying.

To relieve his woes on these occasions, he likes to stop off at a health spa near a corner of the Kremlin, a spot the Soviet hierarchy calls the "clinic." There he may take a steam bath or get a rubdown from a favorite masseuse.

The CIA triumphantly established that Brezhnev had a queasy stomach during his 1973 flight to the United States. Sources aboard the Brezhnev plane reported that the Soviet leader made a desperate dash for the washroom with every downdraft.

When he landed at Dulles Airport outside Washington, he made straight for the presidential retreat at Camp David where he remained ensconced for 18 hours before beginning official ceremonies.

Although the CIA has reliable information about Brezhnev's bad gums, the experts have been unable to fix the cause. "If he had had good American dental care all his life," suggested one intelligence analyst, "he probably wouldn't have this trouble."

Our own dental experts tell us that Brezhnev's aching mouth could mean he has any of a host of ailments, from simple callousing of the gums to Leukoplakia, a condition characterized by lesions which could become cancerous.

Or maybe, suggested one authority, the sore mouth is nothing serious at all, and Brezhnev's doctors merely used it to "scare him into quitting smoking.

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

This is my own my native tongue but half the time, I must confess, I haven't the slightest idea what it's all about. -There's something called a SCHWA, for instance. -Suddenly, out of nowhere, it was there on the printed page to plague me. I'd never heard of a SCHWA - and I doubt if one in a thousand English speaking persons have either but there it was in all its glory, so there was nothing to do but consult a dictionary. And now I know! "A SCHWA," according to the lexicographers, "is the undeterminate sound in many unstressed syllables in words in the English language."

Well, with that as a start, you'd think I would be sufficiently conditioned to easily take the next big hurdle onward and upward toward a better understanding of my native tongue. But there are limits beyond which even a dedicated student of the English language should never be asked to go. So when I started stumbling all over the place on the phrase, "the phonological basis of standard orthography," I decided enough was enough. From here on out, where languages are concerned, I shall give up on English and try my luck with Sanskrit.

Tom Tiede Profit priority of business?

WASHINGTON - (NEA) Ever since Henry Ward Beecher observed that commerce is conducted by the strong, usually against the weak, industry has denied it in toto and fostered it in fact.

Even lately, with increasing suspicion that corporate America has not so much as a soul to be damned, many tycoons have continued to reject any notion of social responsibility save the historic one, that the business of business is business as usual.

Now there are indications that if the mercantile philosophy has been prosperous it may also be selfdestructive. A poll released by Hart Research Associates indicates that a discomforting majority of Americans believe there is the stench of mischief in big business that should, even at the expense of some cherished capitalistic ideals, be fumigated with fundamental change.

The poll, commissioned by the Peoples Bicentennial Commission, an antiestablishment body opposed to conventional wisdoms, is no less startling in its nuances and implications. Jeremy Rifkin, the untitled founder of Peoples, feels the results "clearly show" that many Americans are ready for another revolution, this time in the name of participatory or democratic economics.

"For instance, the poll says that a majority of the public (66 per cent) favor the idea of employe ownership and control of U.S. companies. This is really significant. There are only five or six companies in the nation that are employe-owned and operated — and they are small ones. What the public is saying, though, is that workers in the future should own firms such as General Motors and Exxon and Bell Telephone, that workers should elect the corporate officers, that workers should decide corporate salaries, that workers should set prices and establish markets.

As it happens, the revolutionary idea coincides with Rifkin's insistence that democratic ideals for too long have been excluded from corporate policy making. Like Bernard Baruch, the open, collared Rifkin believes that the humanities should come before business, never forgetting that often the two are interchangable.

Rifkin and Peoples feel that big business has for too long put profit even above honor, much less man, thus the rot of such corruption is of integral concern.

To illustrate the rot, Rifkin mentions the estimated $100 billion which American workers have put away in corporate pension funds. "This money is being invested in multinational corporations which in turn use it to shift some of their assets to other nations. In effect, then, workers are contributing to profits in other places, while undermining their own job rights and security.

Such idiocies would not occur, Rifkin says, if workers had control of their own companies and company policies. Nor would unilateral layoffs in the name of maintaining stockholder profits, nor would cozy relationships between government and industry which benefit the few at the worry of the many. "And we're not talking about socialism here. I think what Americans want is 'economic democracy'," where transfers of ownership are made, where workers make their own economic decisions, but where capitalism remains the system.

Whatever Rifkin is talking about, a single opinion poll will in no way make it a realization. As veteran opinion takers note, the public mood on a given moment is transitory at best, and about as enduring as a gossamer rope.

Yet what is clear about the poll is that in the sense it is planning for the future, American Business As Usual may be digging its own grave. Seventy-seven per cent of those polled agree corporate America is interested in profits before people, 58 per cent feel that businessmen dominate the decisions of public officials, and 49 per cent say that big business is the source of most of what's wrong in the

By any measure this is heavy frustration. It's more and more apparent that people want something better from industry, and that is altruism or else.

The corporation promptly redelegates this obligation to insurance companies. Insurance companies, bidding for these large contracts, insist on exercising control over treatment and costs.

Canary should fly first cabin

DEAR DR. MILLER: I am tentatively planning a trip to the Orient, but won't go unless I can take Tweedy, my canary with me. One airline said Tweedy would have to go in the baggage compartment and I refused, feeling it would be too hard on her. Now I have been told I was foolish. Do you feel I was foolish for refusing to fly without Tweedy with me? - E. L.

DEAR E.L.: If Tweedy is to fly at all (on a plane that is,) then indeed he should be with you - in a compact, draft-proof and completely furnished cage, in the cabin. Travel is stressful enough for a bird anyway. The baggage compartment's not for birds.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Besides the very best dog foods and some meat, Laydee, my pug, gets a soft-boiled egg for breakfast daily. It keeps her coat shiny even though she's getting up in years. Besides all that, she really enjoys it. We hear so much about cholesterol in egg yolk, though, well, is it all right? - C.F.

DEAR C.F.: The cholesterol in Laydee's egg is beneficial for her coat and won't, not in this quantity anyway, have any adverse effect on her blood vessels. A more important consideration for the canine of advancing years would be the effect of the added protein load on the kidneys. Many aging dogs do have kidney problems. For those that do, a restriction on total protein intake is often desirable and, admittedly, Laydee's laying in a large supply of protein daily on her diet. Her veterinarian can advise whether or not a high protein level could currently be injurious to her health.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It was terrible. And it was all my fault. I let Tiger, our cat, out for the first time and ne sat there calmly while this big dog ran up to him, grabbed him, and tore him apart. Poor Tiger. He's going to live, but he'll never be the same. You see, we've always had dogs and he's always trusted and loved them. He just didn't know there were dogs who hate cats. And I didn't protect him. - O.D.

DEAR O.D.: A cat who's been raised with dogs and trusts them needs to be permanently protected. A friendly feline's inactivated body defense mechanism provides no danger warning at all, or too little and too late.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Ms. Mouse smells so micev. I'm using some green kitty stuff that's used for cat boxes. She doesn't smell so bad when I use it, but it's made for cats. Is it still safe for a mouse? She doesn't seem to know the difference. - W. A.

DEAR W. A.: Ms. Mouse might suffer cat-astrophic consequences should she consume that litter. It would make excellent under-wire litter but should not be used for mouse bedding, or direct contact. Other litter made specifically for rodents is safe for direct contact.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An annoying situation is developing. It will cause you to smolder inwardly. Keep it cool. You can't do anything about it for a few days.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to be most liberal with your purse among friends today. The big spender role will net you neither respect nor dividends.

14-year-old has a problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-yearold girl with a problem I need to do something about but I don't know where to begin.

Whenever I laugh really hard I wet my pants. This doesn't happen EVERY time I laugh, of course. Only when something hilarious happens do I get out of control.

Do you think maybe something is wrong with my kidneys? Or is it strictly emotional? What can I do about it? Do you know of any medication or treatment that might help? I have had some very embarrassing moments and I don't want to go through life afraid to laugh. - Slightly Freaky

Dear S.F.: The problem you describe has nothing to do with the kidneys. You should see a gynecologist or a urologist. It's possible that a minor surgical procedure can fix you up so you'll be able to laugh as hard as you want and not

You correctly pointed out that neither Einstein nor Jefferson were atheists. I'd like to comment on Clarence Darrow. He was an agnostic, not an atheist. During the Leopold-Loeb trial when Darrow was asked if he believed in God, he replied, "After half a century of doubting and speculating I haven't come to any definite decision."

Your atheist correspondent, however, could have correctly cited Sinclair Lewis. Then there was H. L. Mencken, whose writings were filled with hate. She could have also added Lenin and Stalin, two of the world's most vicious purveyors of terror and oppression. - San Gabriel Valley.

Dear Gabe: Thank you for the goodie on Darrow. As for H. L. Mencken, his writings were loaded with sarcasm (which may be a watered-down form of hate) but few writers could match him for trenchant humor and barbed wit.

The moustache in England 150 years ago was the privilege only of highly classy fellows. Working men were not sanctioned to wear same. And when the tradespeople defied convention to grow moustaches, the British aristocracy pritnear came unglued. Spokesmen for it said the popularization of the moustache was a profound threat to the national institutions. Do you ever get the feeling that we're all nuts? Wacky? Battier than billygoats? East shifted to a trump. South won in dummy, ruffed a club, cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond, ruffed another club and played two more rounds of trumps.

South was down to one trump, one diamond and two spades. The simple play to make the hand would be to lead a spade toward dummy. But after considerable star gazing, South came to the conclusion that West held the last club and East the last

Rep. Lloyd wants full info before voting on Sinai plan

Before Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., votes on funds needed to carry out the Sinai agreement, he wants to know what promises were made by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to both Egypt and Israel.

"I welcome what could be a major stride toward peace in the Middle East, but I and the American people will not stand for peace at any price."

The West Covina legislator said although Kissinger did an outstanding job of negotiating, he did commit the United States to the maintenance of an electronic surveillance system and economic aid to both countries with the amount of funds and time limits unknown to Congress and the American people.

"Before I and my colleagues in the Congress vote to approve funds to carry out the Sinai agreement, I demand to know what promises Kissinger made, how much money is involved, what time limits what safeguards have been provided in case the Palestine Liberation Organization kidnaps or kills any of the American observers," he added.

"While I believe the most dangerous course this country could take in the Middle East would be to do nothing, and that steps toward peace are welcome, the American people are not giving their government a blank check both in terms of lives and money - to pursue we are talking about and this goal," stressed Lloyd.

As of March, the board said recently, there were 23.241 blacks, Mexican-Americans and other minorities in state civil service jobs.

That is 18.2 per cent of the total and an increase of 1,882 employes - or 0.7 per cent - over last year. It's also an increase of 11.614 employes and 6.6 per cent over 1963 when the survey

But the board said minorities, particularly those of Latin American descent, are still underrepresented in state hiring. Latin Americans make up 13.7 per cent of the total statewide work force but only 5.4 per cent

Source of energy

Windmill being tested

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) - Engineers from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have placed a giant, experimental windmill into operation after indications it may be a practical, supplemental Ronald L. Thomas, head of the wind power office at NASA's Lewis Research Center here, said preliminary results of studies conducted by two contractors "look very encouraging ... It appears that windmills have the potential to be a practical source of energy.

If the machines being developed by Lewis Center pan out, you may see huge, twin-bladed windmills with vanes spanning 190 feet going up in many parts of the country within a few years.

Thomas said the studies being done by General Electric Co.'s space division at Valley Forge, Pa., and Kaman Aerospace Corp. at Bloomfield, Conn., indicate that energy costs will run "from like 7 cents a kilowatt hour to 2 cents a kilowatt hour for sites with average winds of 12 to 18 miles per hour.

That isn't cheap, Thomas acknowledged, "but in some places it's going to look good.

The Edison Electric Institute in New York says the average kilowatt hour cost from conventional power sources in fiscal 1975 was 3.05 cents nationwide, but says costs vary widely from region to region.

In the windmill experiment, the 2 cent figure at 18 m.p.h. sites looks good, Thomas said, "but unfortunately there aren't very many of them." He said there are a lot more sites where winds average 12 m.p.h

Thomas noted that the studies are based on building wind turbines in quantities of 100 to 1,000 and using presently available technology.

Improved technology and quantity production could lower costs for the 500 kilowatt and 1,500 kilowatt machines considered in the two studies.

The wind turbine which Thomas and his aides are assembling at the NASA Plum Brook station near Sandusky will have vanes spanning 125 feet on a 100-foot tower. The turbine is to be in operation by October, and then the tech-connection with the 500 kilowatt wind turbine at Plum Brook will be batteries and a thermal storage system.

Thermal systems, uncommon in this country, are used in England, he said.

Thomas gave this description of the workings of a thermal storage system:

Electrical energy converted to heat melts a substance such as a eutectic salt. To retrieve the energy, water is piped through the melted substance, which freezes as the heat is taken out.

The Plum Brook windmill is not the first big windmill to be put up in the United States. A huge windmill was installed on Grandpa's Knob near Rutland, Vt., in 1941 and operated briefly, putting 1,250 kilowatts into utility power

The Grandpa's Knob windmill was shut after a propeller blade cracked, but Thomas doesn't expect any problems developing equipment that will withstand the

He noted that engineers have had considerable experience with helicopter rotors and "we have a lot more analysis capability today.

"I'm looking for these machines to operate for 20 to 30

Why two-bladed props?

"We found that three blades would give a little more energy, but the larger cost doesn't give that much more energy in relation to the increased cost. A lot of your cost is tied up in those blades.

The big blades, each 621/2 feet long, are being made of aluminum by Lockheed-California. They weigh about one ton each. Two blades are at least twice as efficient as the "old farm style windmills with a lot of blades," Thomas said, "but they don't have that high starting torque.

"Don't forget, that farm windmill was connected directly to the handle of a pump. It takes a lot of force to start that pump.

The NASA researcher said several utility companies are watching his project, which was undertaken at the request of the National Science Foundation.

Plans are already under way to build several 500kilowatt turbines "and one or two of the big machines -

NFL, players' union agree to terms

Football League and its rebellious players' union reached agreement today following a marathon 13-hour negotiation session and both sides said they believed there would be a full schedule of games this weekend.

In an effort to put five striking clubs back to work and ensure that this weekend's games are played, the agreement which was forged during nonstop talks guarantees no repisals against strikers and promises a full offer from management on a new labor contract by next Monday.

W.J. Userv Jr., director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the man who ran the negotiations, announced a "memorandum of agreement" between the NFL Management Council and the players' union at 9 a.m., EDT, and a delegation of five persons headed for Boston. They landed there just before 11 a.m. and headed for a restaurant in Foxboro, Mass. to meet with the Patriots.

"We're pleased to have an interim agreeement; we want to talk to the Patriots," players' union head Ed Garvey said at the Boston airport. Accompanying him on the trip were Usery: Sargent Karch, executive director of the Management Council; and player representatives Doug Van Horn of the New York Giants and Richard Neal of the New York Jets.

Meanwhile, some Patriots gathered at Schaeffer Stadium in Foxboro and others headed for the restaurant.

"I'm delighted," Usery said of the agreement, details of which were not immediately released. Garvey said

Dodgers make it exciting

By BILL LANGLEY

PB Sports Editor
LOS ANGELES — Considering the circumstances, the Dodgers are doing their best to make the final days of the baseball season as exciting as possible for their fans.

As a team, the Dodgers have nothing to shoot for: They were knocked out of the pennant race by the Cincinnati Reds a long time ago and clinched second place in the final National League West standings Wednesday night by easily defeating the San Diego Padres, 7-1.

But there are still a lot of individual goals to be met.

Ron Cey, Steve Garvey and Andy Messersmith came closer Wednesas they led the Dodgers to a series sweep over the Padres and the ninth victory in a 10-game homes-

Cey paced the attack by driving in four runs to raise his season RBI total to 95, just five short of his goal of 100 Garvey pounded out three hits in the romp to climb to the 197 total for the campaign, needing only three more for the magic 200 figure.

Despite giving up nine walks, Messersmith was able to breeze to his 18th victory of the campaign. He will still have two starts to get the chance for a repeat 20-win season.

Besides all this, Burt Hooton still has a shot at 20 with three starts left. He will carry his 11-game winning streak against the Astros Saturday evening in a game to be televised on KTTV (Channel 11) at 5:30 p.m.

Davey Lopes didn't steal any bases Wednesday mainly because he belted two doubles but he needs only two

With nine games left, it's going to be interesting to see what happens with several guys trying to salvage something," Cey said after the game. "This last month or so, we've played very good baseball.

Messersmith, who has allowed only one run in his last 25 innings, pitched into the eighth inning Wednesday before coming out after the first two batters got on base.

Charlie Hough came in to get Dick Sharon to hit into a double play and it was all over for the Padres. Hough hasn't allowed a run in his last 14 in-

The Dodgers jumped out to a 5-0 lead after three innings for an early knockout of San Diego starter Dan

Spillner. DODGER DATA - The Dodgers enjoyed a day off today before opening their final road trip of the campaign Friday night in Houston. After three games under the Dome, L.A. visits San Diego for three before wrapping up 1975 at home against

Both the Saturday and Sunday games from Houston will be televised.

Hooton was honored as the Southern California Athlete of the Month for August.

NEW YORK (AP) - The National he thought this weekend's first round of regular season games, would be played.

Sources said Neal and Van Horn were ready to recommend the agreement to their teammates, who form two of the striking clubs. But the key to ending the six-day-old strike that threatens the regular NFL season was the Patriots, who would have only a day or two to prepare for their season opener.

The Boston Globe reported that the Patriots, meeting in a four-hour session that broke up at 1 a.m. today, had rejected a management proposal that would have put them back to

However, both sides were in touch with Patriots' player' rep Randy Vataha as late as 3 a.m. and sources said he was aware of the details of the new agreement, which was said to be different from the one the club rejected in its 1 a.m. vote today.

There were some reports Vataha might have trouble convincing his teammates to agree to play this Sunday with so little preparation. There was also a strong belief that if the Patriots returned to practice, so would the other four striking clubs. And some of those four teams might return even if the Patriots don't.

In another development, the Green Bay Packers reported for practice this morning. They have voted on a strike Wednesday but had refused to disclose the vote.

Progress Bulletin

Pomona, California Thursday, September 18, 1975

"In light of the commitments made by both sides. I urge all NFL players to resume their regularly scheduled activities so that the American public can see and enjoy the coming season at its exciting best," Usery said as he emerged from the all-night meeting. Usery said the agreement affects all 26 clubs. In addition to the Giants, Jets and Patriots, the other striking clubs are the Washington Redskins and Detroit Lions.

The negotiations began just before 8 p.m. Wednesday night, after the strike had spread to five clubs and moved the league dangerously close to cancellation of up to five of its first weekend's games.

Television networks met throughout the day Wednesday to determine what games, if any, they might show this weekend and the NFL slipped closer to chaos as a result of the mushrooming strike, called because the owners and players' union have not been able to make a contract agreement in the past 191/2 months.

Eleven clubs voted not to strike and some of them strongly criticized Garvey. The future of the union was clearly on the line and all the while the nation's football fans were left on a limb, not knowing what would happen but still expected to pay high ticket prices if games were played.

"Assurances given me by the official representatives of the NFL Management Council have convinced me that they will, on Monday, Sept. 22. present the players with not only a complete and total proposal but one that will be worthy of receiving every consideration for acceptance," Usery said this morning, ad-

therefore publicly urge, and have every reason to expect, that the Management Council and the clubs will make every attempt to present a full and equitable proposal for consideration. At the same time, I call upon the NFLPA and its members to recognize the problems that confront professional football as they make their decisions in the next few days."

Usery said he was hopeful the latest NFL conflict was all but over, and Garvey said, "I think the proposal is the basis for moving forward. We have assurances that it will be a good proposal."

On Wednesday, the busiest day of the young strike, there were these other developments:

-Defensive stalwarts Alan Page, Jim Marshall and Bobby Bryant walked out of Minnesota Vikings camp in support of the strike. Coach Bud Grant said he had excused them from practice. "I have respect for their feelings and will continue to have as long as we maintain communication.

-The Pittsburgh Steelers, Los Angeles Rams, Cleveland Browns, New Orleans Saints, Denver Broncos, Atlanta Falcons and Buffalo Bills voted not to join the strike, a decision already made by the Dallas Cowboys, Miami Dolphins, Houston Oilers and Minnesota Vik-

-There was little reason to believe that strong pro-strike action would be taken by the remaining 10 teams. The Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears have said they would go out only if all the other teams do; the San Diego Chargers voted Wednesday to continue practicing while waiting for further developments; Kansas City, Oakland and St. Louis had not decided on action while continuing to work out. Cincinnati and Philadelphia are opposed to the strike.

-The two remaining clubs, the Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers, pulled the strangest moves of the day. The Packers voted on whether to join the strike, but decided unanimously not to reveal the position they had taken. The 49ers took a vote of some kind, then put the ballot box away before counting its contents.

The strongest non-strike stance was taken by the Bills. Player representative Reggie McKenzie said. "We can not in full confidence support the existing player strike while Ed Garvey is still the existing head of the players association. Until such time as he is removed from the job, we and the team will continue to

Court sides with NCAA

Player limit at 48

But he sighed with relief when he found that a New Orleans appeals court ruling would not go into effect until next week, and put his hands back in his pockets.

'I started immediately figuring out on my fingers who I wasn't going to take this week to North Carolina...I'm just glad the rule didn't go back into effect this week, Claiborne said.

On Wednesday, the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans struck down an Alabama judge's ruling that college football traveling squads may have 60 players instead of being limited to 48 The National Collegiate Athletic Association said to avoid inconvenience to coaches and players, it would give teams one week to implement the rule.

The ruling suspended a temporary injunction granted to Alabama Coach Bear Bryant on Sept. 8 in Tuscaloosa by U.S. District Judge Sam C. Pointer Jr.

The NCAA originally imposed the 48-man limit as an economy measure last August, immediately drawing fire from the nation's coaches. Again, on Wednesday, reaction was marked by dismay and confusion.

The fact the home team can dress 60 players and the visiting team can only dress 48 is wrong. The home field advantage is big enough without having 12 more men." said Clai-

Combat boots helps Bell run

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Why would a man don Army combat boots and ankle weights and then run through the sand?

Ricky Bell felt it might help him at tailback, his third position at the University of Southern California, so he tried the combat boots routine over the summer. Andin his first attempt as a tailback, last Friday night against Duke, Bell:

-ran for 256 yards on 34 carries; -scored four touchdowns;

-blocked ferociously for teammates Mosi Tatupu ad Dave -helped USC beat the Blue Devils

The effort earned Bell honors as the first Associated Press Back of the Week for 1975.

"The biggest thing about tailback is your quickness off the line," said Bell, a junior. "All summer I put on those combat boots and went to the beach to run. I don't know how much it helped my speed, but it sure helped me mentally. Bell, a linebacker as a freshman and fullback last year, took over a spot held recently by guys named Mike Garrett, O.J. Simpson, Clarence Davis and Anthony Davis. He switched because he was the fastest ball carrier in the Trojan camp, despite his 6-foot-2, 215-pound frame. He runs the 40-yard dash in 4.6 seconds.

Before the game I was nervous because I thought of all the great to play a respectable game.

"We had steak at lunch before the game, but I left about three quarters of it there. When I'm nervous I don't eat much. My stomach feels kind of queasy. I just drink a lot of water.

He said when he walked out before 57 000 people. "I didn't really care what the people thought. I just told myself. 'Ricky, stay cool. Hold onto the ball.' I was afraid of fumbling. USC's blocking was awesome and Bell said, "I don't think they'll be able to stop me this year because our blocking is so good. Oh, they may be able to slow me down, but not stop

"The main difference running at tailback is you get to see the whole field ahead of you. You can take a complete look at the defense and choose where to run-right, left, off tackle, up the middle. In the I formation, the fullback is a couple of steps closer to the line. All he can do is run straight ahead or sometimes go off

Farmer, Tatupu and tackle Marvin Powell led the way and Ricky had 141 yards at halftime. His first touchdown run, eight yards, followed a crunching block by Farmer. His second, six yards, was behind Tatupu's flattening of a Duke line-

'Near the end I knew I was close to the record so the coaches put me back in. But they didn't want me running any power plays for fear of getting hurt, so we called trap plays to fool the defense-so I could maybe get some cheap yards. I got 36 yards on four carries.

After his last run of six yards he had the school single-game record. previously held by C.R. Roberts at 251 yards.

Running backs Curtis Frick and Roy VanderKallen lead the La Verne College Leopards as the Leos host St. Mary's Saturday afternoon (1:30 p.m.) in the 1975 season Frick has been All-SCI-

AC first team each of his three years at La Verne. The 6-0, 195-pound senior gained 702 yards last year. It was his blocking that helped spring VanderKallen on many of his runs.

VanderKallen, 5-10, 185, is the jitterbug. "Dandy Vandy" danced his way around would-be tacklers for 845 yards, tops in the conference.

'If our offensive line comes around, we could have an exceptionally good offense," said coach Roland Ortmayer, "because we do have exceptional talent at running back."

All-conference center Roger Hanawalt is the hub of the offensive line. Hanawalt. 6-0, 190 pounds, is flanked by guards Brad Chapman (5-11, 180) and newcomer Dick Aldrete (5-10. 185)

At the tackles are Dave Courey (5-10, 200) and either freshman Chuck Mills (5-11, 190) or sophomore Glen Mayer (5-10, 180). Mills took a spill on a skateboard and may not be able to play. If he can't, Mayer, who is Hanawalt's backup at center, will.

Biggest problem in playing St. Mary's is that the Gaels already have played two games. They were beaten by Santa Clara, 48-18 and lost to Sacramento St., 20-13.

With two games against different level teams, under their belts, they're going to be pretty tough on said Ortmayer. "They'll be far more experienced at game Last year the Leos defeated the Gaels, 20-16, at St. Mary's. VanderKallen ran a third quarter kickoff back 92 yards for a TD. But it was Curtis Frick, as usual, that was the work-Frick carried the ball 24 times, gained 56 yards and scored one touchdown rushing. He also grabbed four passes for 44 yards and a TD. Randy Brown was the quarterback in that game. Brown, who is slated to start today, completed yards and one TD. There was some controversy over St. Mary's statistics last year. The Gaels' statistician credited quarterback Randy Nelson with 336 yards and a new school record. The Leos' statistician had Nel-

Chaffey has high hopes

By MIKE RAWLINSON P-B Staff Writer

If Chaffey College head football Coach Willie Richardson sounds more optimistic than usual, there's good reason for it. "We're real satisfied," said Richardson, three days away from Chaffey's season opener at Santa Barbara Saturday at 7:30 p.m. "We're further along this year than we have been in other years and I attribute it to a fine spring practice and some new coaches that have been added to the staff.

Richardson has seven assistants this year and for this reason the Panthers have been getting more individualized attention

"There's a great deal of enthusiasm all the way around," says Richardson. 'It seems everybody's attitude is good.

Richardson believes the Panthers have some talent to go along with the enthusiasm.

Besides a veteran defensive line which includes 6-5. 250-pound defensive tackle Dave Hurd, Chaffey is thick with defensive backs, all of whom will see action in one way or another - in the secondary or on specialty teams.

Offensively, there isn't as much experience but the coach is pleased with the crop of talent he has this year.

At quarterback, two newcomers. Jamie Broecker of Alta Loma and Bill Childress of Corona, are battling for the No. 1

Childress had the edge at mid-week based on his performance in last weekend's scrimmage with Moor-

"They're both adequate runners and passers," says Richardson. "Who starts will depend on who proves he can move the team the best."

Behind Broecker and Childress, running back Marcus Jennings of Ontario was impressive in the Moorpark scrimmage and may have earned a starting role. Dominic Licavoli of Upland and Jimmy Cleveland of Corona have been impressive also but nagging injuries have limited their practice Richardson says the Panthers will run out of the veer-T offense for the first time this year. "We'll run the option but we'll pass more than most teams do out of the veer, Richardson said.

The quarterbacks have a half dozen receivers to throw to, including Mike Toomay of Claremont who is slotted to see a lot of action at tight end. Herbie Robinson, a Pomona High product, is one of the wide receiver prospects.

It doesn't get any easier for Citrus and Mt. San Antonio colleges this week. The Owls, big winners over MSAC in the season opener for the two teams last weekend, 37-12, must tangle with highly touted Long Beach City College while the Mounties face fourth ranked and highly regarded Pasadena Saturday night in 7:30 p.m. games

Both squads are on the road for the rugged contests which should tell MSAC's Mal Eaton and Citrus' John Strycula what kind of stuff their teams are made of. Strycula's offensive line was more than a match for MSAC's inexperienced unit last week but against Long head-to-head against veterans. Citrus has five starters from the 1974 team that went 8-1-1 in this year's offensive line, including Upland's Rick Hermocillo. "We blocked them (MSAC) better than they blocked us." was Strycula's assessment of last weekend's Owl tailback Roy Prather got a big jump on another 1,000-yard season with 160 yards rushing on 26 carries and three touchdowns against the Mounties. Prather gained 1.100 yards as a freshman in 1974.

Pasadena looks as tough to MSAC as it did a year ago when the Mounties were shutout 35-0. Pasadena went on to a 10-0-1 record The Lancers opened the 1975 season last weekend by walloping San Bernardino, 35-6.

'Pasadena looks better than it did last year," said Eaton. "They have exceptional running backs and a new quarterback.

Running backs Reggie Webster and Keith Bizzle combined for 168 yards rushing and four touchdowns in the onesided win over San Bernardino. Quarterback Matt Jordan completed 4 of 7 passes for 95 yards including a 51-yard TD pass

Orioles raise title hopes

By The Associated Press Mike Torrez posted his 19th victory and Tommy Davis contributed a home run and two singles as the Baltimore Orioles raised their American League East title hopes by defeating the Boston Red sox 5-2 Wednesday night for a split of their crucial two-game series. The Orioles backed Torrez, 19-8, with a 13-hit attack as the Orioles climbed back to within 41/2 games of the Red Sox. Boston's magic number remained at seven. Any combination of Boston victories and Baltimore losses totaling seven will give the Red Sox the division title.

Davis, Baltimore's designated hitter, belted his sixth homer and added two singles while Brooks Robinson contributed three singles to the Orioles' assault.

In other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland

Indians 4-0; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Oakland A's 3-2; the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 3-2; the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 2-1, and the New York Yankees whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5 in 11 innings.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates belted the Philadelphia Phillies 9-1: the Montreal Expos turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3; the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 5-2; the Cincinnati Reds bombed the Houston Astros 10-1, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Atlanta Braves 4-1.

Joe Coleman scattered seven hits to record his first shutout victory of the season, leading Detroit over Cleveland. Wilbur Wood slowed Oakland's drive towards another divisional title by pitching Chicago past the American League's West leaders.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) For seven innings Wednesday night, it was June 23, 1973, all over again for Texas Rangers pitcher David Clyde. That was the date Clyde, then an 18-year-old just off the campus of Houston Westchester High School, made his first major league appearance and in the process drew the first sellout crowd in Arlington Stadium history.

In that one, the young lefthander walked the first three men he faced. Then he struck out the next three to send the crowd into a frenzy and immediately become the darling of Dallas-Fort Worth baseball fans.

Some two years and a few setbacks later, Clyde still holds a special place in those fans' hearts. Shipped out to the minor leagues to develop a curve ball, Clyde hadn't been on the scene at Arlington Stadium this season until the roster limits were increased Sept. 1 and he was recalled along with several other players.

Wednesday the Rangers finally got around to giving Clyde his first 1975 start. There was evidence in his seven innings plus performance that he is much nearer to fulfilling the hopes the Rangers had for him when they made him him in a game. the first pick in the 1973 that the young lefthander still is in the learning stage of his career, and too often that learning comes in the

Olivares likes life

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - "I'm young and I enjoy life and I've got money," says Mexico's Ruben Olivares, the World Boxing Council featherweight champion who admits to enjoying playboy pleasures.

If I were an old man, I wouldn't do what I do, "said the smiling Olivares who defends his crown Saturday night against David Kotey of Ghana

The playboy Olivares, who has held both bantamweight and featherweight titles, said he'll have no trouble making the 126-pound weight limit. And while he's training, he's all serious.

"But I don't dissipate before a fight. I forget everything and get to work," he said.

Between fights is the opportunity to have a good

Olivares predicted at a news conference Wednesday that the fight should be over in 10 rounds and he'll be the winner

"I don't think it will go further than that and I'll win," the fighting machine from Mexico City declared.

I haven't seen him box so it will take a couple of rounds to find out what he's about. Then I'll beat him.' Olivares had one of his strongest fans, actor Ricardo Montalban interpreting for him.

Olivares is 28. He knocked out Lionel Rose of Australia to win the bantamweight title in 1969, one that he lost and regained and then lost again when he had trouble making the 118-pound weight limit.

A hard puncher and a funmaker, Olivares won the WBA featherweight title and then lost that, stopped by Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua in 1974. He came back to stop Bobby Chacon in two rounds and capture the WBC version of the championship last June 20.

The site was the Forum where he'll try to defend the title against the tall Kotey who posts a 35-1-1 record with 20

Olivares hopes to make Kotey his 72nd knockout victim and predicts he'll do just that.

I haven't seen him fight, but that makes no difterence," says Ruben of his foe.

I've fought and beat a lot of fighters I hadn't seen before. It's no advantage to have seen somebody.

Olivares and Emile Griffith are the only fighters to have twice held titles in two different weight divisions. Although he won't let anybody know his exact weight at this point. Ruben declares, "I'm strong. Perfectly strong. I have no troubles at all.

He admits title victory over Chacon came easier than he had expected. The Southern California boxer had sweated off so much poundage just before the fight that he had no offense and very little defense.

Kotey will be ready. He weighs 128 now with only two pounds to shed and expects no trouble doing it.

'I'll use the first two rounds to find out what he has," Olivares commented. "Then I'll adjust and go after him. I don't feel this fight will go beyond 10 rounds.

Proteins have been likened to a jigsaw puzzle in which all the pieces - the amino acids - are linked together to form the complete protein. Of the twenty or so different amino acids that make up protein, our bodies can synthesize all but eight. If any one of these eight amino acids is missing, the protein is said to be "incomplete." For this reason, these eight amino acids are frequently referred to as "essential" No date has been set for since they must be suppli-

Newport, R.I., in 1773, a trip that required about 26 hours with three changes of horses. He received 40 pounds a year and was supposed to deliver and accept mail only. But many postriders also worked for newspaper publishers, soliciting subscriptions, collecting accounts and delivering bundles of papers to taverns -

all illegal. These transactions slowed the service, already plagued by poor roads and a lack of bridges. The riders also opened all their newspapers at each stop, allowing the local printer to extract and summarize the news for his own paper. The riders served as the main news carriers for the first 100 years of American journalism - until the early part of the 19th cen-

The post office made its first appearance in the colonies in 1639, when the general court of Massachusetts decreed:

"It is ordered that notice be given that Richard Fairbanks, his house in Boston, is the place appointed for all letters, which are brought from beyond the seas, or are sent thither, to be left with him, and he is to take care that they are to be delivered or sent according to direction; and he is allowed for every letter a penny A postal service was established in Virginia in 1657. Every planter was required to provide a messenger to deliver dispatches to the next plantation. The penalty for failure: a hogshead of tobacco.

New York set up a New York-Boston mail service in 1672, with one trip monthly. Connecticut established a postal service in 1674. William Penn established a post office in Philadelphia in 1683, with weekly mail to places near the city. About the same time he set up service from Philadelphia to the larger towns of Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The American post proper dates from a patent on Feb. 17, 1691, issued to Thomas Neale. He and the royal postmaster general appointed Andrew Hamilton as the colonial postmaster general. Service began on May 1, 1693, with weekly runs from Portsmouth, N.H., to New York, Philadelphia and points in Maryland and Virginia. Five riders were engaged to cover five

the service was every two weeks

The colonists disliked the system because of the cost of postage and because authorities could open the mail to see if it contained evidence of disloyalty to the king.

Benjamin Franklin was appointed the first postmaster general by the Continental Congress on July 26, 1775, at a salary of $1,000 a year. He switched to diplomacy a year later and was succeeded by his son-in-law, Richard Bache.

Franklin, however, already had made important contributions to the mail service. Disturbed by its inadequacies, he had agreed to become Philadelphia's postmaster in 1737. He impressed the British government and in 1753 became deputy postmaster general for all the colonies

Franklin established the first city delivery service, the first dead-mail office, employed the fastest packet ships across the Atlantic, hired more post riders and required them to ride night and day. He also helped Canada set up its first postal service and inaugurated a Montreal-New York messenger serv-

In 1782, an act was passed authorizing the postmaster general to set up a line of posts between New Hampshire and Georgia. In 1779 Congress repealed a law imposing the death penalty for robbing the mails. Flogging was substituted. Later the penalty was reduced to imprisonment.

The 1782 act also decreed that private letters could not be opened or delayed by postal authorities. Until then the mail service was primarily for use by the government, and private citizens used it at their

Another of the founding fathers who insisted on an efficient mail service was George Washington. He personally helped in surveying post routes to speed the mails. Samuel Osgood was named the first postmaster general under the new Constitution. That was in 1789, when there were 75 post offices and fewer than 2,000 miles of post roads in the country Postage was in money.

with prepayment optional. The first stamps were not issued until 1847. They bore the pictures of Franklin and Jefferson.

JERUSALEM (AP) - creased in number and After 27 years and four wars. Israel has achieved in the interim Sinai peace accord the virtual acceptance of Egyptians that it is a nation here to stay and that Arabs and Jews should live in peaceful coexistence. No other Arab nation has accepted this as official policy and many Arabs, the Palestinian guerrilla in particular, still hold that one day the Israelis shall be pushed into the sea.

Israel officially became an independent state - a Jewish homeland - on May 14, 1948, and from that day on faced conflict.

But the history of Israel actually began at the turn of the century with the arrival of Jews who came to be known as the "Children of Death" because many of them died reclaiming malarial swamps and desert wastes and combating Arabs who opposed their presence even then.

The seedling that eventually became the state of Israel was the direct outgrowth of the Zionist movement created by a little-known Viennese journalist, Theodor Herzl, at the end of the last century

The first Zionist congress met in Basel, Switzerland, in 1897 and vowed to create a national home for Jews in Palestine, then under Ottoman rule.

The lofty words of Basel were difficult to imple-

Writing of the first immigration of Jews, British author Terence Prittie said the immigrants' "determination to reach Israel and their endurance when they got there, were acts of faith, for they died in droves

David Ben-Gurion, Israel's founding father and first prime minister, would recall that he came down with malaria shortly after his arrival and was advised by a doctor to leave or die.

"I didn't listen." reminisched Ben-Gurion. "I hung on grimly, trying to let the disease and the lack of food hinder me as little as possible. He died in Israel on Dec. 1, 1973 at the age of 87.

The settlers lived on land purchased from Arabs by Zionist funds or by such philanthropist promoters as Baron de Rothschild of Paris. By 1914, the Jews owned more than 100,000 acres, half of which were under cultivation.

Zionist aspirations rose when Britain issued its famous 1917 Balfour Declaration, saying it favored a Jewish national home in Palestine. But nothing ever came of it, even after Britain assumed mandatory rule over Palestine following World War I.

The next two decades saw a slow deterioration of law and order as Jew and Arab locked in bloody communal strife.

The end of World War II brought freedom for hundreds of thousands of European Jews, the gaunt and homeless survivors of Nazi Germany, who dreamed of going to Palestine.

In deference to the feelings of the Arabs, Britain restricted Jewish immigration, touching off a string of bloody incidents as the frantic Jews attempted to run blockades.
